Waveland would annex prisoner center site

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two representatives of the State Department of Corrections addressed the Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday on the possibility of locating a minimum security work center near the city.

Morris L. Thigpen, a corrections commissioner, and Monti Rhodes, corrections supervisors for Harrison, Hancock and Stone counties, appeared at the meeting at the invitation of Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr.

Thigpen said centers similar to the 75-bed facility in which Waveland has expressed interest presently exist along the Coast in Gulfport and Pascagoula.

If Waveland is selected as a site, the city would have to provide a three-to-five acre site with utilities and sewage as well as city services such as garbage pick-up and fire protection, Thigpen said.

The department would also pay the $475,000 to $500,000 cost of constructing the facility.

In exchange, Waveland and possibly Bay St. Louis and Hancock County would have prisoners available to them as free labor.

Thigpen said having prisoner labor available has allowed some of the cities with work centers to continue services originally paid for with federal funds after those funds have been discontinued or reduced. In addition, some cities have been able to extend services that would be beyond the range of their budgets if paid workers were used.

Longo said the aldermen have not yet selected a specific site to offer for the facility. "There is no property available and we would have to annex some," he explained.

Hypothetically, Longo said, the city could either annex property near Buccaneer Park or could annex a nearby community.

"The park could use the help and we could provide the people out there with city services, or we could go out to one of the communities like Shoreline Park where the people have been wanting services but haven't been able to get them," he said.

Several citizens who attended the meeting were concerned about what type offenders would be housed at a work center.

According to Thigpen and Rhodes, almost all of the prisoners would be minimum security risks. Most would be from the Hancock County area, since the state's corrections system attempts to place work center prisoners near their homes.

The only exceptions would be prisoners who had turned state's evidence and could not be placed in the state penitentiary at Parchman because being in a general prison population could endanger their lives, according to Thigpen.

State Senator Gene Taylor, who was unable to attend the meeting but favors locating a work center in Hancock County, added that prisoners will not be sent directly from county jails to work centers.

Instead, they must progress to a minimum security level in the regular prison system before becoming eligible for placement in a work center.

Taylor was the first to approach the city with the possibility of providing a work center site. A similar proposal he made to the board of supervisors for a site in the county was turned down.

Longo said he plans to invite law enforcement officers to the board's next meeting for further discussion of the work center.

If possible, Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith will address the board because there is a work center in Harrison County.

Also to be invited are Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson and Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn.

Longo added that the aldermen would consider setting a date for a public hearing on the matter after discussing it with the law enforcement officers.

Ladner pleads guilty to possession, defense for Guilbeau opens

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The trial of Virginia Guilbeau on possession of marijuana charges continued late Wednesday after a defense motion for a directed verdict of not guilty was overruled by the judge.

Guilbeau, her son Gregory Ladner, Ivan Martinez and Raoul Lozardo were arrested March 1984 in connection with the seizure of 5,100 pounds of marijuana at the Guilbeau residence on Fire Tower Road in Kiln.

The trial which was scheduled for Martinez and Ladner as well as Guilbeau was delayed Tuesday morning when Ladner entered a plea.

He pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute before Circuit

Judge Kosta Vlahos.

Ladner told the court he had become involved in a scheme with Martinez and Fairly Necaise to bring the marijuana into Hancock County.

Necaise was to make arrangements for a pilot who would fly the marijuana out of the county, Ladner said.

Ladner said he and Necaise were supposed to divide in excess of $500,000 for their part in the operation.

Vlahos requested a pre-sentence report and scheduled a sentencing hearing for Ladner April 5 at 9:30 a.m. in Hancock County.

The maximum fine which could be imposed on Ladner is $1 million and he could also be sentenced to up to 30 years imprisonment.

A $75,000 bond on Martinez who failed to show up in court Monday was revoked and a warrant for his arrest has been issued.

The court has heard testimony from seven different federal Drug Enforcement Agents who were involved in the case as well as Hancock County Sheriff's Office Investigator Alvin Ladner and Lieutenant Fred McDonald of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics.

Special agent James Beaupre took the stand first and testified that while involved in the undercover operation he had been hired by Ladner and Martinez to transport the 5,100 pounds of marijuana from McAllen, Texas to Hancock County.

Another DEA undercover agent, Dennis Bryant, told the court he had been instructed by Martinez to drive a rental truck loaded with the marijuana to Hancock County.

Bryant said he also been told to call a Kiln telephone number listed to Guilbeau to arrange for someone to meet him at the welcome center.

Bryant's testimony also revealed that a tracking device had been attached to the rental truck, which allowed agents to track the location of the truck.

According to testimony by Bryant, he drove the truck to the welcome center on Interstate 10 where he had been approached by Guilbeau.

He said he had turned the keys to the truck and the lock on the back of

Striking Bay teachers fired

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis School Board has terminated the contracts of teachers who failed to report for a staff workday Monday, while schools in the Hancock County and Pass Christian districts remain closed for spring holidays.

According to Superintendent J.D. McCullough, 93 teachers were terminated after the board reached its decision at an emergency meeting Monday.

He said the 17 teachers who reported for the workday will be allowed to return to their classrooms as soon as school can be reopened.

Two of the district's 112 teachers were excused from school Monday due to illness.

In addition, 11 non-certified personnel were terminated because they did not report for work. The district still has 82 non-certified employees at work.

Board attorney Lucien Gex recommended that letters be sent to striking teachers declaring that their contracts are "null and void through abandonment."

The non-certified personnel who failed to report in Monday have been sent similar letters.

Although non-certified employees are not considered to be on strike, a count of those who worked Monday and those who did not work has been compiled for payroll purposes, McCullough said.

All district employees who worked Monday will be paid for the day, he added.

"We can't reopen the schools until we have enough teachers who are willing to return to work," the superintendent explained.

He said he has talked with a few of the fired teachers concerning a return to work but has taken no action yet.

Summer term at GCRL to feature 13 courses

Six first-term and seven second-term courses are included on the 1985 summer field course schedule at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs.

In addition, four courses will be available by special arrangement with members of the GCRL teaching and research staff, according to Dr. David W. Cook, registrar and assistant director for administration and academic affairs.

Application deadline is April 30 and applicants from the 59 colleges and universities affiliated with the laboratory will be given priority. During the first term, two consecutive courses in Marine Science for Teachers will be offered. Marine Science for Teachers I is scheduled for May 27-June 14 and Marine Science II will follow from June 17-July 5.

Dr. Cook noted that facilities at the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi will be utilized for these two courses for the first time and should enhance learning potential and opportunities for students enrolled in both classes.

First term classes scheduled for May 27-June 5 are Parasites of Marine Animals and Marine Invertebrate Zoology, Oceanography I (Physical, Chemical and Geological) will be taught from June 3-July 5. Salt Marsh Plant Ecology is scheduled from June 10-July 5.

All second-term classes will begin on July 8. Scheduled classes and ending dates are Coastal Marine Geology (July 28); Marine Botany (Aug. 2); Behavior and Neurobiology of Marine Animals (Aug. 2); Oceanography II - Marine

Commission acts on prospects for lease

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission went into executive session Monday to meet with a prospective tenant for the former Bergeron Marine site at Port Bienvenue Industrial Park.

According to Port and Harbor Director James DeBlanc, two barge repair firms are interested in the property, which until Feb. 26 had been tied up in court proceedings over the bankruptcy of Bergeron Marine.

Bergeron Marine was also a barge repair firm and left the industrial park after declaring bankruptcy nearly two years ago, DeBlanc said. The firm's property, which included a number of leaseholder improvements as well as the lease with the county, was taken over by Interfirst Bank of Dallas, Texas, and First National Bank of New Orleans.

DeBlanc declined to release names of the firms interested in the 40-acre site, since the commission has not reached an agreement with either one.

After the executive session, the commission passed a resolution granting a 60-day option to the firm bidding highest when the leaseholder improvements are sold at auction March 26.

Leaseholder improvements include all buildings, equipment and other additions to the property which could be removed from the site.

DeBlanc said the resolution applies to any other prospects which may express interest in the property before the sale in addition to the two firms that have already met with the commission.

In addition, the commission voted to raise the salary of Claude Green, engineer in charge of maintaining the railroad equipment at the industrial park, from $700 per month to $1000 per month.

The change was approved on a recommendation from the commission's railroad committee, commissioners Nancy Gex and Jerry Seuzeneau.

Gex and Seuzeneau had recently inspected the 9.4 mile railroad and said they found two culverts needing repairs and about 190 wooden crossties needing replacement.

They said Green has an ongoing program for replacement of crossties and had already replaced numerous crossties prior to the inspection.

"He's having to do more maintenance and use more of his own equipment now," Gex said, "and he does the same kind of work for other railroads and charges more."

In addition, the commission authorized its engineer Carlos Cordón to determine the exact placement of a water line near property under lease to Smith and Smith Aircraft, took bids on a road project at Stennis Airport and a tractor and grass cutter for the industrial park, and discussed four-laning the road entering the industrial park. The commission meets again March 25.

Martinez fails to show for Hancock drug trial

BY DENA BISNETTE

Junco Ivan Martinez, co-defendant with Virginia Guilbeau and Gregory Ladner in a trial on drug charges, failed to appear in court Monday.

Martinez, a Cuban national, is charged with possession of 5,100 pounds of marijuana with intention to distribute. He was arrested along with Guilbeau and Ladner, both of Kiln, on March 24, 1984.

In addition to being a co-defendant in the trial, which is being heard in Hancock County Circuit Court by Judge Kosta Vlahos this week, Martinez was expected to be called as a defense witness.

Vlahos ordered that a $75,000 bond on Martinez be revoked.

The judge also stated that he understood that Martinez had also failed to appear for a Jan. 5 trial in U.S. District Court in Texas.

The federal charges against Martinez are also drug charges and are related to the same investigation by U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents that resulted in his arrest in Hancock County.

Albert Necaise, attorney for Martinez, told Vlahos that he had expected his client to be present for the trial.

However, Necaise also said he had not heard from Martinez since late December.

James Dukes of Hattiesburg, who with William Dukes of Gulfport represents Guilbeau and Ladner, requested that Vlahos postpone the trial for his clients, particularly Guilbeau, because Martinez was unavailable as a witness.

Dukes and Necaise both stated that Martinez had been expected to testify that Guilbeau knew nothing about the marijuana found in a truck parked at her Firetower Road residence.

Vlahos refused to postpone the trial because he saw no evidence that Martinez would be available as a witness at a later date.

In addition Monday, the court selected the jury for the trial.

Six full juries and one partial jury, numbering about 80 people, were originally empaneled.

The group was reduced to one panel of 12 and two alternates through questioning by the judge and attorneys.

Most of those eliminated by questioning stated that they would be unable to render an impartial verdict due to opinions formed when they read or heard about the case through the news media.

Several others were released because they knew the defendants.

Sure, and aren't we all Irish on St. Patrick's Day? And whether you're planning a St. Pat's menu, American-style, of corned beef and cabbage to celebrate the day, or whether you're planning the "Ould Sod" Irish menu of salmon, smoked or otherwise—All Hall St. Pat and the Emerald Isle!

The salmon has often been called the national dish of Old Ireland, its prominence stemming from the earliest days when it was highly prized as a great delicacy. It was the glorious main dish at the great banquets of the Kings of Ireland—often roasted whole on a spit, thoroughly rubbed with honey and salt, or slow-broiled in those huge pots of the Irish countryside.

Since we're not likely to find a whole salmon hereabouts, I shall have to settle for salmon soufflé or mousse, or perhaps smoked salmon, slices served with dark bread, in the manner of old Ireland. But, wait a bit, I did see salmon steaks at one of the markets lately, so I shall go back there, and perhaps have salmon steaks for my supper.

And, even if you're cooking corned beef and cabbage on St. Patrick's Day, why not give your feast that special Irish touch with a tint of salmon or a bit of fresh salmon, served with squares of dark bread and squeezes of lemon, as a prelude to the main dish? And, for a fitting finale and salute to Ireland's patron saint, let's serve:

IRISH COFFEE

(If you're serving this in stemmed goblets, be sure to prepare the glass by filling it with hot water for a second or so, then pouring the water out, or by standing a silver or other spoon in the glass, to prevent breaking.)

For each serving, place a teaspoon or perhaps a dribble more of sugar, depending upon your sweet tooth, into a glass or cup, approximately six-ounce size, then add enough Satan-hot strong black coffee to dissolve the sugar, and stir well.

Add a generous jigger (1 1/2 oz.) whiskey, preferably Irish, but Bourbon will do, and fill the glass within an inch of the brim with coffee.

Gently float a more-than-generous tablespoon of whipped cream atop—but, whatever you do, don't just mix the cream into the coffee—sip the coffee through the cloud of cream. You may, of course, omit the whiskey, but you won't get that good Irish glow, though it's still a heavenly taste to sip the hot coffee through the cream.

It will be parade time again in Waveland on Saturday starting at 2 p.m.

The annual St. Patrick's Day Parade sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association will form at 1 p.m. on Waveland Avenue.

Jimmy Lagasse, president of the Waveland Civic Association, reports very much interest has been expressed in the parade this year.

Over 55 marching groups and floats are already scheduled for the big event.

The procession will move in Central to Coleman Avenue, Coleman to Beach Boulevard, Beach East to Lafite Drive, Lafite to Central, Central to St. Joseph where it will disband.

This year's Grand Marshal is Louie O'Smolensky, a Waveland alderman, and colleen is Laura Lea O'Hillman of Diamondhead, a student at Our Lady's Academy.

In the parade and along the parade route there should also be a lot of O'Bourgeois', O'Ladner's, O'Zimmerman's, O'Ferry's, O'Grass', O'Hubbard's, O'Rappold's, O'Longo's, O'Yarborough's, O'Fayard's and 'O' so many people.

We hope to see you at the parade.

We know many of Waveland's residents will be involved with the parade on Saturday, yet we are hoping they will take time out to vote in the runoff election to be held for school board member at Waveland Elementary.

The polls will be open only from 2 to 5 p.m., so we are hoping everyone will make arrangements to vote.

The election is for qualified electors living in Waveland and a small outside area for the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

Waveland's representatives on the school board are elected while Bay St. Louis members are appointed.

Education is very important, so please do you best to get out and vote.

DAYS GONE BY—In the early part of this century there was no vehicular bridge across the Bay of St. Louis and the only way to cross was by a ferry boat. This photo is of the ferry landing in Bay St. Louis which was located at the head of what is now de Montluzin Street, according to longtime resident Mrs. Octave Delph. Mrs. Delph reports the ferry was the Cecil N. Dean out of Morgan City, La. and highway traffic would use Main Street from the Spanish Trail to reach the crossing. The Louisville and Nashville railroad bridge is in the background. In the 1920's a wooden bridge was constructed across the Bay of St. Louis at Ulman Avenue replacing the ferry. The photo appears on a post card distributed by Fahey Drug Company of Bay St. Louis and is courtesy of Jeffrey Schultz.

HOUSEKEEPING

A Weekly Summary Of

Mississippi House Of Representatives

An effort to override Gov. Bill Allain's veto of a key appropriation bill failed last week in the Mississippi House of Representatives, temporarily clouding the future of dozens of other spending measures.

There were conflicting opinions about the impact of the action, and legislators were still studying the matter as the ninth week of the 1985 session ended.

While the vetoes bill was viewed by some as a "test" measure on a pay raise for thousands of state employees, it actually applied only to the State Treasurer's Department. The vote was 68-52 to override but fell 12 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to pass the bill.

Regardless of the vote on the veto, many representatives said they remained confident a salary increase would be approved for teachers. They also expressed hopes a pay raise would be enacted for state employees, although not necessarily as much as proposed earlier.

It was a difficult decision for most and a lot of different factors entered into the action on the veto. But both sides agreed that finding the money to fund the proposed salary hikes was a primary concern. Some legislators said the vote might be interpreted in certain quarters as a show of support for the governor's budget recommendations and no-tax-boost stand. Others said they viewed the vote as a signal for the Legislature to take a second look at overall state spending in the hope of holding any tax hikes to a minimum.

A House-Senate conference committee was appointed last week to work on the teacher pay and revenue bills passed earlier by the two chambers. Legislative negotiators hoped to agree on a compromise plan as quickly as possible so the bill could be forwarded to the governor.

Otherwise, lawmakers turned their attention in the past week largely to bills previously passed by the opposite chamber—the House taking up a stack of Senate measures, the Senate considering bills that started in the House. The deadline for floor action on these bills is today.

Among the Senate bills approved by the House was a measure to raise the state's drinking age from 18 to 21 for beer and light wine. State law already prohibits the sale of liquor to anyone under 21.

The bill, which backers hope will reduce alcohol-related highway accidents, also provides new penalties for violators. Under the House version, the new law would take effect Oct. 1, 1986, coinciding with a federal mandate to raise the drinking age to 21. The Senate version called for the new law to take effect July 1, 1985.

Another bill approved by the House says no person shall be allowed to operate a motorcycle on state highways without a driver's license, and motorcycle endorsement, or a restricted motorcycle operator's license. Anyone with a valid driver's license issued prior to July 1, 1985, could operate a motorcycle until that license expires.

The House also voted to continue a three percent markup on alcoholic beverages to help fund treatment and rehabilitation programs for alcoholics.

A proposed constitutional amendment to give extra protection to the Public Employees Retirement System moved closer to final legislative approval last week. The amendment, which cleared the House with no dissenting votes, specifies that all assets and proceeds of the retirement system shall be used for benefits, refunds or administrative expenses under the direction of the governing board of the system, and shall not be diverted for other purposes.

The retirement system already is protected by state law, but sponsors said the amendment would insert language in the Mississippi Constitution to further safeguard the fund. The proposal also would apply to the Highway Safety Patrol Retirement System.

The Public Employees Retirement System has more than 120,000 active members, including more than 90,000 city and county workers, teachers, and personnel at state universities and junior colleges.

Also, the House approved a proposed boost in minimum benefits under the Public Employees Retirement System, but without increasing contributions to the fund. Backers said there was sufficient money in the fund to make the changes without upping contributions.

Among other bills approved last week by the House were measures to establish the crime of computer fraud and set penalties; redefine some of the duties of the State Audit Department; provide that 100 percent of the oyster shells produced from oysters taken from public reefs of the state are the nontransferable property of the state; permit counties to assist in maintenance of junior college campus property; and allow counties to buy property to provide polling places in voting precincts.

The House Penitentiary Committee held a special meeting on the state parole system. And, former Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas made a brief visit to the House.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us.

Money saved through unit system of county government could finance school shortages

To the Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

Again, we Mississippians are embarrassed and humiliated as we beggar our underpaid teachers and dilly-dally over doing something constructive about it.

Why can't we, at long last, display the vision, courage and unselfish statesmanship necessary to consign to the garbage dump our county road system operated by supervisors as individuals—a system given to duplication and waste?

The millions, even billions saved thereby could be used to save our schools.

Surely, this is the time to cry out: "We have had enough. We want the unit system of county government now!"

Respectfully,
Dwyn M. Mounger
Bay St. Louis

Teachers spend more time with children than do parents

To The Editor:

All through history our nation's great men and women have died because they believed God created men equal.

Abraham Lincoln, Martin Luther King, John F. Kennedy and others all died because they believed in equality.

Must education "die" in Mississippi because people in "high" places do not believe that Mississippi teachers are "created equal" with teachers in other states?

This does not speak well of the high schools, junior colleges and universities from which they themselves graduated.

Mississippi teachers who work anywhere from 10 to 16 hours a day preparing, teaching and evaluating student's work are paid less than "high quality" ditch diggers in Texas and other states.

Are the teachers in this state to understand that inequality and ignorance is the commodity the governor, some senators, and some legislatures want for Mississippi teachers and students?

For years now the high achievers from our schools have moved on to greener pastures or have turned to jobs outside the "noble" profession.

Is it any wonder that when big companies and industries do come to Mississippi they bring their own personnel?

People of Mississippi, you are getting more education for your children than your state government is paying for. Must the teachers who spend more waking-hour time with your children than you do always have to live with a bargain basement salary?

Think, then speak!

Clarification issued on voter eligibility in Saturday's runoff election for School post

To the Editor:

Regarding run-off election to fill the seat on the Bay St. Louis School Board which will be held at the new Waveland school located on St. Joseph and the Old Spanish Trail:

I would like to correct the wrong impression I gave so many people.

The fact is that if you live within the school district which allows the children to go to the Bay St. Louis schools or the Waveland school but do not live in the city of Bay St. Louis (which appoints their board of trustees) you can vote this Saturday in the run-off at the Waveland school. I think you will find a map showing boundaries in this paper.

If you go to the St. Patrick's Parade which is scheduled at the same time as the election, please try to show your interest (it's your tax money) and vote before or after the parade.

Anyone in line before 5 p.m. will be allowed to vote.

Hope to be able to thank you again for coming.

Mrs. Wm. H. Bradford
Waveland

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

WHY NOT MISSISSIPPI?

George Bernard Shaw wrote: "Some men see things as they are, and ask why?"

"Others dream of things that never were, and ask, why not?" Mississippians keep asking, "why not?"

Why not more rapid economic advancement?

Why not improved government? Why not more excellence in education?

Why not improved transportation? These and other questions will be asked—and answered—soon in an assembly of the state's business, professional and industrial leadership.

The meeting, scheduled for April 11, is the annual membership meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council, now 36 years old.

"Why Not Mississippi?" is the theme of this year's event, scheduled for Jackson.

Heading a cast of outstanding business and professional leaders who will be discussing such questions is former governor and retired judge, J. P. Coleman.

Jackson bank executive E.B. Robinson and newspaper executive Charles Overby of Washington, formerly of Jackson, will join Judge Coleman in the discussion. Chairing the discussion will be John Emerich, publisher of newspapers at Greenwood, McComb, Indianola and Columbia.

The discussion by this distinguished group is but one of several important sessions planned for the April 11 meeting.

Mississippians concerned about the advancement of their state may want to be on hand for these discussions.

Mississippi State Senate

By SENATOR GENE TAYLOR

I am very pleased to report that I was successful in having the Senate pass an appropriation to fund construction of a technology center building at the NASA laboratories in Hancock County.

I offered an amendment to the appropriation for the Mississippi Research and Development Center to include funding for the center to be known as the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center.

The amendment, which provides $4 million in state monies, was passed by the Senate with no dissenting votes.

The state will construct, furnish and equip the 50,000 square foot building which will then be operated and maintained at no cost to the state by NASA.

The bill calls for the building to have space for:

- 1) Location of new agencies and contractors at the National Space Technologies Laboratories as new jobs;
- 2) Growth of the existing agencies and their support contractors as new jobs;
- 3) Establishment of a Center of Excellence for Remote Sensing to be staffed and operated by the Mississippi Institute of Technology Development;
- 4) Expansion of the Mississippi Technology Transfer Office; and
- 5) Offices that can be made available to institutions of higher learning for research projects.

We expect the project to result in 250 to 275 new jobs which NASA statistics say should pay around $30,000 each annually because of their high technology nature.

Further benefits should include enhancement of the state's economic development activities, the generation of high impact jobs, and the development of spin-off industry throughout the state. Also, the center should be of great help in transferring technology from the space laboratory to the public and the private sectors.

I see this center as a boon to the people of Hancock County and to all the people of Mississippi. I believe it is a step toward creating the type of economic climate where our young people can find employment in high paying jobs without leaving the state.

I would like to thank my colleagues Senators Martin T. Smith, George Smith, Steve Hale, Tommy Gollott and Louis Fortenberry for their help in getting this measure passed.

The bill must now pass the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee and then the full House after which the Governor must sign it into law. Gov. Allain is supporting this project.

April production cast listed

The cast for the April 11-13 production of "How the Other Half Loves," now in rehearsal, includes one veteran and five newcomers to the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre stage. Edgar H. Perez, in the role of Frank Foster, last appeared on the Boardman Avenue stage in "Never Get Smart With An Angel." Bay community theatre appearances include roles in "The Butler Did It," "Love, Sex and the IRS" and "The Odd Couple." A native of New Orleans, Perez is managing editor of The Sea Coast Echo.

Gayle Roy, co-owner with her husband of Gulf Line Boats in Waveland and a native of Florida, moved to Bay St. Louis with her husband and two children in 1983. Her first experience with community theatre was in last year's Gulfport Little Theatre production of "Waiting in the Wings."

For her first appearance in Bay St. Louis, she is taking the role of Fiona Foster.

Penney Kelley (Teresa Phillips) and George Welman (Bob Phillips) live in Herron Bay. Kelley, a native of Kentucky, is a real estate broker who is developing waterfront property and has recently erected a geodesic dome in Herron Bay. Although "How the Other Half Loves" marks her first stage appearance, she has already been cast for the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's special production of "Ladies of the Alamo." Welman, too, is "hitting the boards" for the first time, but he has been featured in numerous television commercials, including a national "Uncle Ben's Rice" spot, and in several movies.

A native of New Orleans who returned south after seven years in southern California, Welman is currently producing a comedy spoof television pilot which he hopes to release this summer.

Rounding out the cast as Mary and William Detweiler are Anita C. Jacobs and Tom Jacobs, a couple from Long Beach who met onstage during their college years. She is a teacher at North Bay Elementary School. He works for High Speed Copy Printing Center in Long Beach. Both have former credits from Carey Dinner Theatre in Hattiesburg and are active in Gulf Coast Opera. They, too, had roles in "Waiting in the Wings," for Gulfport Little Theatre.

SCOUT FUND RAISER—Diamondhead Boy Scout Troop 20 recently conducted a car wash to raise funds for camping equipment. Another car wash is slated by the scouts for Saturday, March 23, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the

Book Review

A LOW-SODIUM DIET FOR HEALTH

Salt is second only to sugar as an additive in the American diet. As a consequence, medical scientists find, we ingest 10 to 20 times the sodium our bodies need or can eliminate.

A number of recent studies have indicated that over-consumption of sodium is linked to hypertension (high blood pressure) which is, in turn, cited as a major cause of heart and kidney disease, stroke and death.

Behavioral scientists tell us that our early vegetarian ancestors ate very little salt, probably less than 500 mg. a day. Even today, it is agreed that physiologically we need less than 1,000 mg. (1 gram) of salt in our daily diet. In spite of that we are eating, on average, 25,000 mg to 35,000 mg. Because early man used little salt our bodies hoard sodium and excrete potassium. This creates the problems with our bodies.

It is generally agreed that desire for salt is acquired and can be controlled with very little difficulty. Many baby food manufacturers have eliminated salt in their products without a discernable change in the eating habits of infants. In fact newborn babies express a distaste for salt.

In spite of this many baby foods are loaded with sodium. The average baby gets about 25,000 mg. per day.

The diet of babies and young children contains so much salt that they become "hooked" and then, as they grow, ever-increasing amounts of salt are evidenced by the teenager's preference for salty snack foods, potato chips and fast foods.

The introduction of excessive amounts of highly-salted foods into the diet of our young has resulted in a population which averages two to four teaspoons (2,000 mg. per teaspoon) of salt per day in its diet, although the body needs only a fraction of that amount. The result is 50 million persons in the United States suffering from high blood pressure.

A nutrition task force of the non-profit Consumer Education Research Center has studied this situation and compiled a book to help break the salt habit. It lists the salt content of over 800 foods, liquors and medicines. The book, "Salt And Your Health" is available for $4 plus $1 for mailing from CERC, P.O. Box 336S, South Orange, N.J. 07079.

Even pets are given diets extremely high in salt content. The makers say that this is necessary to encourage the animals to eat the products. However, meat-eating wild animals eat no salt except that found in the other animals they eat. Thus we subject the pets we love to the same diseases that we cause in ourselves.

According to Robert L. Berko, executive director of the center, there are many ways to season foods without salt. For instance, he says the flavor of asparagus can be enhanced by using garlic, lemon juice, vinegar or onion. For beef Berko suggests using bay leaf, dry mustard powder, green peppers, majoran, fresh mushrooms, nutmeg, onion, pepper, sage or thyme. The book lists alternate seasonings for meats, fish poultry, vegetables and soups.

The consumer leader cautions against the excessive use of salt substitutes since they use potassium in place of sodium and can result in problems associated with too much potassium.

"For those who require more specific ways to avoid sodium, we have included low-salt recipes and sources where other recipes can be found," says Berko.

He tells us, "We think we can tell what foods are salty, and many times we are right. Obviously sauerkraut, pickles, potato chips and herring are salty. But did you know that 2 slices of Pepperidge Farm White Bread (234 mg.) contains more sodium than a one-ounce bag of Lay's Potato Chips; that ½ cup of cottage cheese contains as much sodium as 32 potato chips or that ¼ cup of Jello Chocolate Instant Pudding and Pie Filling (404 mg.) gives you more sodium than three slices of Oscar Meyer Sugar-Cured Bacon (302 mg.)?"

"Did you know that dehydrated chicken or beef noodle soup contains 1,200 mg of sodium and Parmesan cheese (grated) 528 per serving. Regular whole milk contains 195 mg.

per eight ounce glass while instant whole milk delivers 470 mg. A modest serving of canned shrimp brings you a giant 1,955 mg.; chili con carne with beans (canned) 1,194 mg. per cup; stuffing mix 1,131 mg. and Kentucky Fried Chicken (3 pieces) a whopping 2,285 mg. of sodium."

Berko reminds us, "Most adults need less than 1,000 mg. of sodium per day for their physiological well-being."

We must be vigilant and know the sodium content of the foods we eat and it is essential to our health that we develop a plan to reduce our salt intake," he stresses.

The center's study suggests that we immediately cut down to half the salt we normally use in our cooking and reduce gradually from there. Don't add salt before.

The center's study suggests that we immediately cut down to half the salt we normally use in our cooking and reduce gradually from there. Don't add salt before tasting foods. Replace foods high in salt with those low in salt content. Try to prepare as much of the food you eat as possible. Manufacturers use three times as much sodium in cooking as the home cook.

NEW STOP SIGNS

The Bay St. Louis Police Department has set up a new four-way stop at Washington Street and Old Spanish Trail.

According to Police Chief Murray Ladner, enforcement at the new stop begins today and officers will be operating radar speed detectors at the intersection.

Ladner said stop signs have been placed at the intersection because his department has received numerous complaints concerning excessive speed on Old Spanish Trail, which causes difficulty for vehicles entering the road from Washington Street.

In addition, he said the new stop is expected to make the intersection safer because Old Spanish Trail is used for emergency traffic from the police and fire departments.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about legal rights.)

Q. My wife and I live in an apartment that we have been renting for about a year. Although the apartment was in rentable condition when we moved in, it is now in need of many general repairs. Our landlord has refused to make any repairs. Is he obligated to make the repairs to our apartment and, if not, under what circumstances would he be liable for any injuries that occur because of the condition of the premises?

A. Under Mississippi law, in the absence of an express agreement between the landlord and tenant to make repairs, there is no obligation or duty upon the landlord to do so.

Therefore, if your rental agreement makes no reference to the obligation of the landlord to repair, he will not be responsible for repairs to your apartment.

A landlord will be liable for injuries incurred from latent dangers which he knows about and conceals, or being aware of the latent danger, does not inform the tenant.

If the tenant knows of the defect or condition, no duty will be imposed upon the landlord.

Q. My wife and I rent a second floor apartment in a unit with four apartments on each floor. It is necessary to use an old stairway to get to the upstairs apartments. My wife recently fell down the stairs as a result of the poor condition of the steps. The landlord was aware of the condition of the stairs but says he is not responsible because I signed a provision in our lease agreement to the effect that he would not be liable for any injury occurring as a result of his negligence. Is he responsible?

A. The stairway separating the two floors is a common one as it is used by many tenants to access their apartments.

A landlord has a duty to keep common areas reasonably safe and is liable for damages for a failure to perform the duty.

The provision that you signed in your lease is known as an exculpatory clause.

County resolves complaint on logging debris clean-up

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock Board of Supervisors authorized its attorney to draw up a contract to insure that a logging operation in Beat Five leaves roads and ditches clean.

Beat Five Supervisors James Travira complained that Charles Henley, who is conducting a logging operation in several locations in his beat, has left branches and other debris in ditches and roads.

Henley addressed the board, explaining that he had left most of the debris for a pulpwood hauler to collect. "You can't stop and wait for the pulpwood hauler. You just have to leave it there until he can collect it," Henley explained.

Travira, however, wanted Henley to guarantee that the logging areas would be cleaned up, particularly one near Paradise Road.

Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar agreed that Travira should demand some kind of guarantee and said Henley had done some similar work in his beat about a year ago.

"I'm still trying to straighten out those roads," he commented.

Board Attorney Walter Gex III said he would arrange for a short contract to be drawn up if Henley would sign it.

Henley agreed to the contract. In other business, the board approved issuing a certificate of convenience and necessity for Borg-Warner. The firm wants to issue $75 million in industrial revenue bonds for a new project, Kellar said.

Borg-Warner's last request for industrial revenue bonds was for an expansion. Although the amount of the bonds totalled $125 million, only $50 million were used.

The supervisors also granted a travel request from Assessor-Tax Collector Edward Murtagh, who will attend a class in Jackson; and approved a request from Bureau of Marine Resources Director Richard Leard, who asked that the board approve the selection of a soil testing laboratory for a study on Bayou Cadet.

The board recessed until 10 a.m. today, when the supervisors will meet briefly to open bids.

Bay planning and zoning commission hears requests

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday denied one and approved another request to subdivide property for development.

Ramon Stevens' request to subdivide a lot near St. Charles Street in the annexed area was denied.

Commission members told Stevens all the requirements of the subdivision ordinance had not been met.

The ordinance requires the lot to be subdivided front on an existing dedicated street and have utilities including water, gas and sewerage.

The lot Stevens requested to subdivide met all requirements with the exception of having adequate sewerage.

The commission told Stevens they could not grant permission to subdivide in violation of the ordinance.

They voted to refund money paid by Stevens for the subdivision application.

Later the board approved an application for a special subdivision by C. C. McDonald Jr.

McDonald requested permission to subdivide a lot off the Old Spanish Trail in the Alpine Subdivision.

After discussion the commission agreed that all subdivision ordinance requirements had been met and approved the request which will be presented to the Bay Council Tuesday.

Two juveniles arrested at county welfare office

Bay St. Louis police officers have arrested two juveniles who apparently attempted to burglarize the Hancock County Welfare Department about 2:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Police Chief Murray Ladner said the two youths, ages 15 and 16, had apparently broken into the building through a side door and had ransacked offices.

When police officers arrived, the two broke a window and attempted to escape by jumping out of it, he added.

Both juveniles were arrested but one has since been released to parents. The other youth was placed in detention.

Officers Wilbert Dorsey, Bill Brown and Frank Williams made the arrests. Chief Investigator Joe Pica is investigating the incident.

Ladner said so far, nothing has been found missing from any of the offices except a calculator.

"OUR RECIPE"

Bring water (with seasonings) to a boil. Add shrimp & boil approximately 10 to 12 minutes. These are large shrimp (36-50 lb., or 21-25 to lb.) Check to see if shrimp shell has separated slightly from the meat on upper back. That is the sign that they are done. Pour ice into the water to cool it down & add salt. Let soak 15 minutes so shrimp absorb flavor. Salt added at this time keeps shrimp from sticking to the shell. We boil large shrimp for $4.89 lb. ## Jolly Green Thumb

BY MARY FUREY CRYMES

If you look closely, you'll spy the ever-eager gardener, lurking about the plot, picking up bits of winter debris, and peering anxiously at the soil. Most likely it's healthy — the soil, as well as the activity — but experts say even the best garden loam can lack certain nutrients. Looking won't tell you much. Try testing instead.

To avoid planting in the dark — figuratively, unless you use the old "full moon" theory of the Farmers' Almanac, get a soil sampling and either take it off for testing or do it yourself. Garden centers and plant shops have several different kinds of kits to help you discover what's in your soil, and what's not. If you decide to let the pros have a go at diagnosis, look in the phone book under "county agent," "extension service" (can be a University listing) or governmental agricultural center. Call around and you'll locate the right person(s) to test your soil — either free or at very low cost. You can help them by taking a correct sample.

The experts prefer a sampling from 5 or 6 points in the garden plot. Use a spade free of other soil, and dig a scattered pattern. Go for a slice about an inch thick, six or seven inches deep. Put these in a clean pail and mix. Take out a pint or so for testing, bag it and label with date and pertinent location. Avoid touching sample with hands or tools.

Hopefully, the soil you have tested will show need for only a minimal amount of added nutrients. A quick refresher course on these — every plant requires 16 nutrients to flourish. Amounts required vary from plant to plant, and four of them — oxygen, hydrogen, carbon and chlorine — come from air. Lack of the remaining dozen can cause garden problems — and their absence shows up in poor and sickly plants. It's one of the miracles of the plant world that the lack of nutrients causes the same results regardless of area or climate. Another nice point — the same experts that analyze the soil can come up with the exact right formula to improve it.

Matters of Health

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

Q: My grandmother sometimes has difficulty remembering names. This upsets her, because she fears that she may have Alzheimer's disease. What are the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease?

A: Forgetfulness commonly encountered in the elderly may differ from the common memory problems seen in Alzheimer's disease. Although age does seem to be a factor in the disease, memory disorders of the illness differ from the more common absent-mindedness or forgetfulness of aging.

As people grow older, certain changes take place in their cognitive style, and the way they learn new material. While their reservoir of knowledge continued to increase, their flexibility and rate of processing information may slow down. As a result, they become more forgetful with age.

Depression, which is very common in older people, also affects memory. When anyone is depressed, he or she is not as quick and sharp as at other times. Frequently occurring depression in the elderly may aggravate their problem of forgetfulness.

Contrary to absent-mindedness or forgetfulness, Alzheimer's disease is a neurological disorder. The major changes in the patient with this disease are cognitive and intellectual, and the symptoms are reflected in five major areas, including attention, memory, language, visual and spatial disorders, and behavior.

* Attention. A person with Alzheimer's disease may have difficulty focusing attention on a particular conversation or event. Conversely, the same individual may not be able to shift his attention appropriately. The inability of the individual to manipulate and focus attention results in an impairment of general problem solving.

* Memory. Another symptom of Alzheimer's disease is loss of memory. A person may pay attention, yet not be able to remember an event or conversation. This symptom is reflected in the inability of patients to learn new information and to retrieve things from the past.

* Language. The sequence of language change may be variable. The problem lies in both language production and comprehension. The patient may first find it difficult to think of the right words to use during the course of a conversation. Then, when asked, he may have difficulty naming objects, and will substitute the wrong name for an item. The person eventually will be using the wrong words during the course of a conversation, as his ability to comprehend language continues to decline.

* Visual spatial disorders. Some patients with Alzheimer's disease suffer spatial disorganization. They lose a sense of where they are geographically. They may become lost and have difficulty with various kinds of situations, even in figuring their way around their own home.

* Behavior. Frequently, behavioral changes parallel with other symptoms of Alzheimer's disease. For example, a patient who is impulsive and easily distracted may behave even more impulsively. The patient may become depressed as a reaction to not functioning well, and his problems also may result in paranoia.

A patient with Alzheimer's disease may have problems in any of these areas and the symptoms may progress at different rates. In general, according to many researchers, young patients tend to have more language problems than patients over the age of 65.

Many medications may be useful in helping patients to function better, although none can yet reverse the progressive intellectual decline. In addition, there is a major effort being made to learn more about Alzheimer's disease. The federal government is investing money in intensive, integrated and collaborative studies. Several national research centers are being funded. Most cities now have Alzheimer's disease programs or support groups and there is good reason to be optimistic that patients can be helped.

News From I R S

DIVORCE PROPERTY

When spouses divorce, they often transfer property from one to another. If the property had appreciated in value, the person transferring it was taxed on the gain that occurred, while the one receiving it used the value on the date of transfer as his or her basis in the property, according to Sylvia Wren, Director of the Internal Revenue Service in Mississippi.

This treatment changed under the Tax Reform Act of 1984. Property transfers incident to a divorce are now treated as gifts and are nontaxable at the time of transfer. The person receiving the property will continue to use the old basis and will be liable for any capital gains tax at the time of sale.

The new rule generally applies to transfers made after July 18, 1984. If the transfer resulted from a divorce settlement made on or before this date, the new rules apply only if both former spouses agree to it. They may also elect to have the new treatment apply to transfer made any time after 1983.

It is important for the recipient to obtain good basis information at the time of divorce so he or she will be able to calculate the tax properly at the time of sale. Each couple will want to examine how the new rule affects them before making any decisions about property settlements.

For more information about the tax aspects of divorce, request the free IRS Publication 604, "Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals," by using the order blank in your tax package or calling 1-800-241-3860. It is also available as reference for reading or photocopying at many public libraries.

Residents of the area between the dotted lines are eligible voters in a run-off election for school board trustee Saturday at the Waveland Elementary School on St. Joseph Street in Waveland from 2:5 p.m.

Voters reminded of Saturday's run-off election for school board

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A run-off election between Margo Bradford Frommeyer and L. D. (Danny) Carter is slated for Saturday at the Waveland Elementary School on St. Joseph Street near Old Spanish Trail from 2:5 p.m.

Both candidates opposed the election date because of a conflict with the Waveland Civic Association's St. Patrick's Day Parade, but Bay St. Louis School Superintendent J. D. McCullough said the law requires the election to be two weeks after the primary election.

He added that voting must be in the same location and during the same hours.

Although the voting hours are scheduled to end at 5 p.m., Frommeyer said she had been assured that any voter in line by 5 p.m. would be allowed to vote.

The run-off election was scheduled when no candidate gained a clear majority of votes in the March 2 primary election.

Frommeyer, with nine votes more than Carter, received the highest number in that contest.

The incumbent, she has served on the school board for approximately one year after being appointed to fill the unexpired portion of a term vacated by Betty Diboll.

She is employed by the Naval

MARGO FROMMEYER

Ocean Research and Development Activity at NSTL.

Frommeyer said she believes there are still improvements she would like to see in the school system and would like to have the opportunity to continue working with other board members.

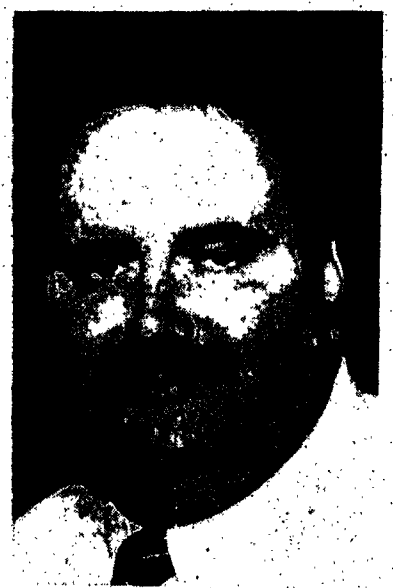

Carter, an auxiliary officer with the Waveland Police Department, is a native of Grenada.

He is a U.S. Navy veteran and a member of the American Legion, Post 77.

Carter said his nine children, six of whom are students in the school district, are his reasons for being a candidate in this election.

Carter says he would like to see meetings of the trustees with parents as well as with students for input and ideas.

"The children today have fresh new ideas they should be invited to share those ideas with everyone," he said.

Guilbeau.....

the truck over to Guilbeau after she had shown him a written description of the truck and the license plate number.

A New Orleans based female DEA agent who followed Bryant from Slidell verified Bryant's testimony.

DEA criminal investigator William Dodge testified he had been in surveillance at the welcome center and knew where the rental truck was parked by Bryant.

He said he had seen the defendant talking with agent Bryant. He stated he next saw a Latin male exist from a light-colored Lincoln near his surveillance vehicle, enter the driver's side of the rental truck and follow the Lincoln from the welcome center.

Although Dodge said he could not identify the people in the Lincoln, earlier testimony had revealed that Guilbeau, Ladner and Lozardo had travelled to the welcome center in the Lincoln.

DEA agent Artis Wells presented testimony to the court that a verbal consent had been obtained from Guilbeau for a search of the property when the area was being secured.

Wells also said a monitor for the tracking device which was attached to the rental truck was in his automobile which allowed him to know the location of the truck.

Tuesday's last witness was DEA supervisor James Stewart.

He testified to seeing Guilbeau examine a vehicle involved in the undercover operation at a police substation and to arresting the defendant a few miles away at the intersection of Firetower Road and Highway 603.

During the cross-examination of several witnesses, defense attorney James Dukes was instructed by the court to allow witnesses to answer questions asked, to refrain from being excessively repetitive, not to argue with the witnesses and not to badger the witnesses.

Vlahos also reminded Dukes of the correct tone to address the witnesses.

Early Wednesday a motion by Dukes to suppress the admission of a search warrant was overruled.

Testimony Wednesday by DEA agent John Chase and Investigator Ladner led to the introduction of the search warrant which revealed the contents of the rental truck parked on the Guilbeau property.

Following the denial of a directed verdict of not guilty, the defense began its case calling the defendant's son.

Ladner testified that he had pled guilty to possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute but that his mother, Guilbeau, had never been told what was in the truck.

Ladner testified that Guilbeau believed that the contents of the rental truck were furnishings for the cottage rented by Martinez as a summer home for his family.

The trial is to resume Thursday morning with cross-examination of Ladner by prosecutor Herman Cox.

Teachers.....

In order to return to work, a striking teacher will have to sign a new contract with the board.

McCullough said the decision to terminate the teacher contracts was based on a memorandum from the State Department of Education.

The memorandum required school districts, under a court order from a Hinds County chancery judge, to submit to the State Superintendent of Education a list of all teachers still striking after Monday, March 11, indicating the type of funding from which they are paid.

McCullough said the district would also compile a list of non-certified personnel who have joined the teachers' strike, but said that list is for the district's payroll purposes.

In the Pass Christian District, schools have been closed since March 1 and teachers were threatened earlier this week with court action if they did not return to school.

According to Superintendent Leroy Lizana, the legal action would have probably been an injunction, but the district's school board decided Tuesday night to postpone taking the matter to court.

Instead, the board decided to declare Wednesday, today and Friday as spring holidays, originally scheduled for the first week in April.

The two remaining spring holidays will be used to help make up lost classroom time, Lizana added.

"We've lost eight days and we still need to get our 175 days in," the superintendent explained.

"We will have school Monday and buses will run," he added. "We will decide at that time what to do if we don't have enough teachers reporting."

In the Hancock County District, teachers are still on their second week of spring holidays. School is scheduled to resume Monday.

The school board decided at its last meeting that buses will run that day and students will be sent home if there are not enough teachers to supervise them.

The board is expected to take further action on the matter at its Monday meeting.

Peggy Dutton, spokesperson for United Teachers of Bay St. Louis and Hancock County, said county teachers are simply waiting to see what will happen next week, while city teachers remain undisturbed about losing their contracts.

"We are not disturbed by being fired. For the moment, we see it as a matter of conflicting obligations," Dutton said.

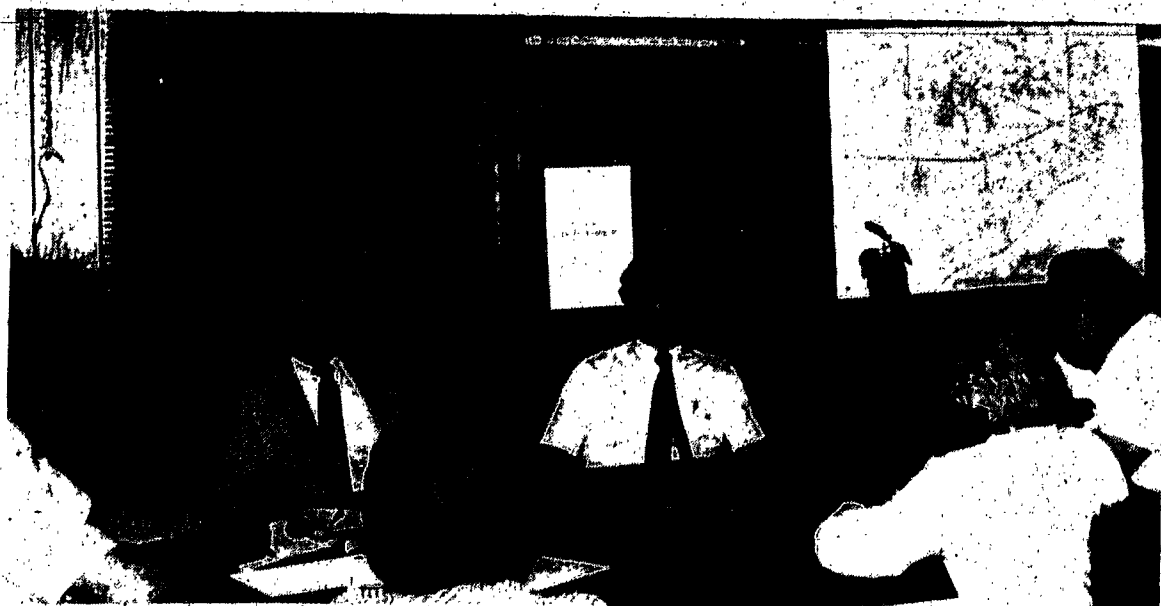

"The board has a duty to preserve the financial status of the district and our duty is to the future of education."

Teachers were prepared to lose their jobs, she said, and feel that the district's requirement that any teacher who wishes to be rehired sign a new contract is fair.

However, she was surprised to learn that some of the non-certified personnel had lost their jobs.

"We had informed them that they could not be protected in the same way teachers could be. We advised them strongly to do what was best for them and did not put any pressure on them to walk out with us," Dutton said.

She said strikers have continued picketing and writing letters to legislators in hopes of some favorable action on the pay raise issue.

RAIDERS—Gulf Coast Waste Raiders in action against Slidell Saturday, March 9. Ross Bonura, left, and goalie Alan Schmitt.

With three weeks remaining in the soccer season, standings which will determine teams advancing to district play are tightening.

In the Under-8 Division, second place is hotly contested between Nell Frisbie and Dental Health Services with Dental Health Services having a mathematical chance of taking over first place should they win and Coca-Cola losing the next two games.

In the Under-10 Division, Bernard Construction and Take One Video appear to have first and second place well in hand.

The most closely contested division is the Under-12, with four teams having a chance to advance to district play.

The four teams are still competing for first and second place.

Under-14 boys who play in the Slidell League continue to do well. Nationwide Insurance is undefeated and untied, Gulf Coast Waste Raiders is undefeated but has one tie. These two teams play for the BAYS Under-14 Championship at 9 a.m. Saturday, Mar. 23 at the Seminary.

"With the exception of the Under-10 Division, the teams appear to be more evenly matched this year than in prior years. This is, of course, the objective of a recreational soccer league," said Paul Montjoy, BAYS president.

"The remaining games for many teams will be crucial, and parental support for the teams at the games really makes a difference," Montjoy said.

"Parents are encouraged to bring their friends and come out and support their child and the team," he added.

Hagler out to break own 'highest paid' record

Marvelous Marvin Hagler, who was the highest paid athlete in the world in 1984, with $3.4 million in earnings, is looking forward to breaking this record in 1985, when he defends his world middleweight title against Thomas "Hit Man" Hearn on Monday, Apr. 15.

The fight will take place at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

Hagler is guaranteed $5.4 million plus 45 percent of the gate over $14 million. The defending champion hopes to break the all-time record of Sugar Ray Leonard, who received $13 million in his successful title defense against Hearn in 1981.

The Hagler-Hearn fight would have to gross $32 million in order for Hagler to top Leonard in single-fight earnings. This figure is not an impossibility, according to Bob Arum, of Top Rank, the international promoter of the fight.

Arum's reasoning is because of the fact that there will be no "free" receptions of the live fight. The message to closed-circuit sites will be scrambled and decoded at the exhibition sites. There will be no home TV, no radio, nor will the picture be available on home satellite discs.

The fight will be seen live in the United States, Canada and Mexico through hundreds of closed circuit outlets.

Hearn is also looking for his biggest payday as he is guaranteed $5.1 million, plus 35 percent of the gate over $14 million.

Many boxing observers agree that the fight will not go the distance, and the winner will win by knockout.

Hagler, whose record is 60-2-2, has won 50 bouts by knockout. Hearn, who sports a 40-1-0 record, has logged 34 kayos. He knocked out his first 17 opponents, and in 1978 won all 11 of his bouts by kayo. He is the only man to knock out former world champion, Roberto Duran.

Hagler is in intensive training in Palm Springs, Calif. Hearn has set up his camp in Miami Beach.

The fight may be seen live on closed circuit television at the Coast Coliseum, beginning at 8 p.m. There will be other bouts on the card. Boxing fans will be treated to three hours of boxing on the big screen.

Reserved seats are $25, general admission is $20.

Tickets are available at Loicano's Health Center, Bay St. Louis.

Rocks slide past Tigers in JV play

"The game is never over until the last man is out" applied Saturday afternoon in a seven-inning regulation Junior Varsity game between St. Stanislaus and Bay High played at the SSC diamond.

Trailing 13-8 with two outs in the top of the last inning, the Tigers rallied for five straight runs to knot the score at 13-13.

It took a clutch single by Philip Wittmann and some good baserunning by Jay Artigues to score the winning run for St. Stanislaus in the bottom of the last inning to win the game for St. Stanislaus 14-13.

Starting pitchers were Louis Schuff for SSC and Mark Gonzales for Bay High. Schuff pitched five complete innings, striking out seven and allowing only three earned runs.

Gonzales pitched two hitless innings before surrendering nine runs on five hits in the third and fourth innings.

Andrew Collins of Bay High led off the top of the first with a single, but Schuff then went to work and retired Troy Haynes on a fielders choice, struck out Eddie Booshaw, and got Mark Gonzales to ground out to Artigues at second.

In the bottom of the first, SSC's Clinton Edwards walked, then stole second. Artigues hit a line drive that was caught by the centerfielder Lawrence Thomas.

Schuff then accounted for one of this five RBI's when he hit a deep fly that scored Edwards.

YaSin Shabazz then flied out to Lawrence to end the first inning with the score SSC 1-Bay High 0.

Bay High got a line run in the second when Lawrence Thomas walked, and Monty Strong singled to left. An infield grounder to SSC shortstop Lloyd Nicaud was temporarily bobbled, but Nicaud recovered to throw Strong out at second. Grant Kohnke then struck out, and Schuff got lead-off hitter Andrew Collins to fly out to the second baseman to end the inning.

Gonzales retired the SSC batters in order, as the Rocks could not mount a drive in the second inning.

Schuff continued his strong pitching in the third inning, striking out Troy Haynes and Eddie Booshaw. Jay Ginn then stepped up to the plate and hit a home run over the 350 fence in right centerfield, giving the Tigers a 2-1 lead going into the bottom of the third.

The Rock-a-Chaws wasted no time in regaining as catcher William Scarborough hit Gonzales' first pitch deep into centerfield for a stand-up double. Scarborough scored when Lloyd Nicaud followed with a double.

Clinton Edwards walked, and Jay Artigues flied out to the shortstop for the first out. A passed ball allowed Welsh to score, and Schuff drove in two more runs with a single.

Shabazz then struck out and Bert Dean flied to right field to end the third inning with the Rocks leading 4-2.

The Tigers could not put a drive together in the fourth as Thomas flied to center, Monty Strong singled, but was left stranded as Schuff struck out the next two Tiger batters.

The bottom of the fourth proved to be SSC's big inning as the Rocks pounded out six runs and five hits. Rocky Rhodes led off with a walk, Joe Welsh then doubled. Scarborough then flied to right. Lloyd Nicaud singled sharply to center scoring Rhodes. Clinton Edwards followed with a single, scoring Joe Welsh.

Artigues continued the attack with a double to center field, scoring Nicaud. Louis Schuff's second single of the contest scored Edwards. Shabazz flied out to the first baseman, and Bert Dean was safe when the third baseman could not handle his ground ball. The six run inning ended when Rocky Rhodes grounded to the third baseman. After four complete innings it was SSC 10, Bay High 4.

Bay High came back in the fifth to explode for four runs and get right back in the game. After Collins flied out to Edwards in left, Troy Haynes walked, Eddie Booshaw doubled, and Jay Ginn walked. Mark Gonzales' single scored two runs, and Lawrence Thomas singled scoring Booshaw. Monty Strong got up and singled for his third hit of the game. Pinch hitter Mark Haverty also singled driving in Strong. With the score 10-6 and two outs, Schuff got Andrew Collins out on strikes.

In the bottom of the fifth, SSC picked up three more runs when Joe Welsh was safe when Grant Kohnke dropped his fly in left field. William Scarborough then walked, and Lloyd Nicaud hit a triple, scoring Welsh and Scarborough. Nicaud scored when Edwards hit a single to left field. Jay Artigues then popped up to the shortstop and Louis Schuff flied out to the pitcher. At the end of five it stood St. Stanislaus 13, Bay High 8.

But the Tigers were not ready to quit. YaSin Shabazz came in relief of Schuff, and walked two batters, but did not allow Bay High to score. SSC did not score in the bottom half of the inning.

In the top of the seventh, Bay High tied the game when they came up with seven runs, five of the runs coming with two outs. It started when Lawrence Thomas singled, and Monty Strong hit a grounder to Nicaud who threw out Thomas at second. The Tigers followed with a double and Haverty's single. Shabazz walked lead-off Andrew Collins and second-place hitter Haynes.

Eddie Booshaw then sharply singled, followed by Jay Ginn's walk. Mark Gonzales then walked, making the score 13-10. Mike Weems came in to relieve Shabazz. Lawrence Thomas then singled for the second time in the inning, scoring two runs. Monty Strong then hit a grounder to the first baseman Bert Dean who flipped the ball to pitcher Weems covering first. Weems could not hang on, and the score was tied at 13-13. Weems got Haverty to strike out to end the top of the seventh.

In the bottom of the seventh, Joe Welsh flied out to the right fielder for the first out and William Scarborough flied out to the first baseman. Pinch hitter Philip Wittmann singled to right center field. Courtesy runner Jay Artigues went in to run for Wittmann, and advanced to second on a passed ball. Another passed ball allowed Artigues to take third. Pinch hitter Vince Elchos then stepped up to the plate. Smart baserunning by Artigues scored the winning run, as he stole home when the catcher threw a 2-1 count back to the pitcher.

Both Coaches G.L. McRaney from Bay High and Mike Gemelli from SSC concurred that both teams played a hard-fought game, with neither side giving up.

Rocks will participate in a Picayune Tournament.

Schedule for the round-robin tournament is for SSC to play Picayune at 7 p.m. Thursday night, Hancock North Central Friday at 5 p.m. and Poplarville Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m.

Fun & Fitness

Anaerobic literally means "without air." It encompasses a wide variety of exercises and sports of short duration and/or intermittent effort including most weight training, running sprints or intervals, field athletic events, baseball, football, soccer, and many more. Basically, an activity is classified as anaerobic if it requires a maximal, sustained effort of 1 1/2 minutes. There is not a set time cutoff, but sustained activities longer than 1 1/2 minutes become progressively more aerobic.

If you are training for a particular goal sport, this is about this: Your body adapts specifically to the demands placed upon it. If your sport is essentially anaerobic, you should be training anaerobically a majority of the time. This is not to say that aerobic exercise is not indicated to some degree, but rather that aerobics are not the panacea for all sports conditioning programs.

Anaerobic exercise results in an oxygen debt. This means that your body is unable to inhale and metabolize (process) oxygen at a rate equal to the rate which you are using it. This results in a buildup of waste products at the muscle site. This is why people who have been exercising anaerobically breathe fast after the completion of their effort. They are inhaling oxygen and using it to repay the oxygen debt and rid the muscle of the waste products which have accumulated.

Anaerobic fatigue is primarily the result of the oxygen debt and the buildup of lactic acid. Anaerobic training does not change the rate at which these events occur, but it does effect the manner in which your body reacts to them. Specifically, anaerobic training increases the amount of lactic acid and oxygen debt that your body is able to tolerate before complete fatigue.

Since a high state of aerobic fitness increases the amount of oxygen and nutrients supplied to the muscle site, the anaerobic athlete with an equally high level of aerobic fitness should be able to recover more rapidly between efforts. Consequently train or perform with greater frequency. Total fitness is the secret to great performers and athletes.

Now we see how useful anaerobic training can be, how can we do it? Weight training is the purest form of anaerobics, especially when relatively heavy weights (80 percent of maximum or more) are used with few repetitions. Sprints with plenty of rest in between repetitions or intervals are also good whether they be running, swimming, bicycling, or rowing. Hills, stairs, and ramps also make good anaerobics sites.

The idea is to use a variety of training schemes to prevent boredom and muscle imbalance. Entire books are written on each of the forms of exercise listed in the previous paragraph.

from the United States. Except for that one event, however, the United States has been and continues to be the world leader in almost every aspect of sport.

Science and sport have always been close to one another. The original concept of physical fitness was once based on a medical model. Physicians, not coaches, led us into the 20th century. Somewhere between then and now, the medical and scientific portion of what we do has changed from brute force to stresses.

The most significant breakthrough has come in the form of computer programming and all the technology that Americans take for granted. In recent years, Eastern Block countries have produced athletes who have given performances far superior to those of their Western competitors. Those performances have been made possible by the use of sophisticated scientific applications of human performance studies. The computer is the single most important technological advancement today. From biomechanical to nutritional uses, it can advance human performance like no other aid. In the United States, there are small pockets of sport scientists who are beginning to make changes in our unique contribution to sport — one that cannot be equaled in societies without the freedom of personal access to technology that we enjoy.

One such example of an individual rather than an institutional use of sport computer technology is Dr. Gideon Ariel and his research center at Coto de Caza, CA. Software is innovatively being developed there which better details the analysis of performances and develops the data into a usable coaching tool.

In colleges and universities across the nation, students who normally would be taking classes designed specifically for coaching assignments now are adding computer science to their curriculum. From physics to biochemistry, the course offerings are being upgraded in areas of sport and physical education so that the scientific basis of human activities is being made available to even the most basic level of instruction. This is something the Eastern Block countries have been stressing in recent years. Without personal access to the technology, it cannot be fully utilized by all levels.

The American way may not have always produced the most medals in the last few Olympics before L.A., and we haven't won the World Cup in soccer. But you can bet that with all the people who have computers and an interest in sports, American computer technology will keep us on top of the game for many years to come.

Radishes: abundant, quick growing, popular

By Milo Burnham
MCES Horticulturist

Radishes have never been my favorite vegetable and I've always relegated them to a secondary role in tossed salads.

In importance, after the major ingredients, they fall somewhere after the green pepper, carrots, onion, red cabbage and cucumbers.

Radishes certainly aren't a new vegetable since there are records of them being in ancient Egypt before the pyramids. Wild forms still exist in China, their probable place of origin, but it's only in recent years that radishes seem to be drawing more attention from plant breeders and home gardeners.

The small, red salad radishes have a reputation of being easy to grow, quick to mature and quicker to become hot, pithy and over-mature.

They are a favorite with first time gardeners, gardeners with limited space and kids. We all plant too many, grow them too quick and fail to use all of them while at their best.

Radishes are certainly more popular with some people than they are with me because they always occupy a prominent space in the vegetable display at the grocery store.

Years ago I visited a commercial radish farm and was amazed first of all that there was a market for so many radishes and that their production was so mechanized.

While one multiple row planter was dropping seed in the ground on one part of the farm, a multiple row harvester was literally snatching thousands of radishes out of the ground every minute. These great machines followed one another in about 25 to 28 day cycles; for that is all the time it takes to grow a crop of radishes.

Plant Radishes Soon

Time is near to plant radishes in Mississippi and there are a great many types and varieties to choose from. The most popular type has a round, bright red root with white inside flesh. There are an unlimited number of varieties of this type. Cherry Belle, Scarlet Knight, Scarlet Globe and Champion are four popular varieties.

Within this group there are varieties with long leaves and also those with short leaves. There are even radishes with a white end to the predominately red root.

In addition to the popular types, there are round, white radishes such as Snowbelle, long, white radishes like Icicle, multi-colored Easter Egg hybrid radishes and Valentine, a white and green radish with red flesh.

All of these radishes should be grown in spring and fall because they thrive in cool weather but suffer in hot weather. The soil should not be too acid; a pH level of 6.0 to 6.5 is ideal and there should be an adequate supply of phosphorus and potash to promote good root development.

Radishes grown rapidly in cool weather are mild while those grown slowly and under stress will be hot and pithy. Crowded seedlings fail to develop good roots. Space the seed at planting or be prepared to thin the young seedlings to stand at least one inch apart to avoid this. Plant just a couple of row feet of radishes every few days to keep a fresh supply ready for use. This is better than making one large planting.

While all gardeners are familiar with the standard types of radishes that mature in about four weeks, many gardeners may not know of the winter radishes or those that mature in about seven to ten weeks.

Winter radishes should be planted in the fall garden because they take so long to mature. They are much larger than the salad radishes and have a stronger flavor or pungency. Uses include salads when peeled and sliced thin, soups, and cooking with meat dishes.

Some varieties are Tama, China Rose, Black Spanish and Daikon. These radishes may be large and round or long and slender like a carrot.

The skin color is white, rose or black. One fall several years ago, I grew a few Black Spanish radishes; the skin was very black and the flesh white. The flavor was extremely pungent and after eating some, I swore off winter radishes forever, but as I said earlier, I am not an avid fan of radishes.

This spring gardeners have the opportunity to try some of the results of plant breeder efforts. In addition to the varieties already described, Cherry Beauty is a red hybrid, Galahad and Saxafire are tolerant to club root. Fuego is tolerant to fusarium black root and rhizoctonia scurf, and Fancy Red is tolerant to three diseases.

Gardeners who don't like radishes at all may find they still serve a purpose in the garden. They can be used to mark rows of slower germinating vegetable seeds. A small amount of radish seed mixed in with other seeds prior to planting will do the job.

Since radish seeds germinate rapidly and the seedlings are vigorous, radishes also can be used to more or less lead the way for smaller and less vigorous seedlings of other vegetables. Again, radishes mixed with other seeds will help to break the soil crust and enable less vigorous seedlings to emerge. Once the desired seedlings are established, the radishes can be removed.

SERENDIPITY—Col. and Mrs. John Newkirk of 653 North Beach Blvd., Waveland will open their home to tourists on the 1985 Spring Pilgrimage sponsored by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club Monday, March 28. The Newkirk home—designed by architects John Mykolyk &

Associates of Pass Christian and built in 1970 to replace a structure destroyed in 1969 by Hurricane Camille—combines traditional and modern concepts. The Newkirk residence will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. (Photo by Barbara Pursley)

DRUG QUIZ

QUESTION—What does drug tolerance mean?

- Larger doses are necessary to produce the same effects.
- Smaller doses are necessary to produce the same effect.
- The drug user is better able to get along with people.
- Physical illness results from discontinuing the drug.

ANSWER—A drug is a substance which by its chemical nature alters the structure or function of the living organism. Specifically, a drug is any chemical substance that alters mood, perception, or consciousness. It may be misused to the apparent injury of self or society.

Tolerance is a state in which the body's tissue cells adjust to the presence of a drug. However, the body must readjust virtually all of its normal functions to compensate for the presence of a drug. As the body's tolerance grows, increased quantities of the drug are required to produce the desired effect.

Correct answer—a.

The Sea Coast Echo Book Review

CONSUMER GROUP OFFERS TIPS ON AVOIDING DRUGS DURING PREGNANCY

Women no longer have to choose between discomfort and taking medication during pregnancy, according to a national consumer group.

This is especially important, according to Robert L. Berko, executive director of Consumer Education Research Center, since many studies have shown that some over-the-counter drugs are harmful to the unborn baby.

An illustrated 32-page book tells how to prevent and ease the most common discomforts of pregnancy through exercise, massage, diet and other natural alternatives to drugs.

The book, 'Natural Remedies for Pregnancy Discomforts,' is available by sending $4, including postage, to CERC Pregnancy Study, P.O. Box 338P, South Orange, N.J. 07079.

Most remedies for morning sickness contain antihistamines which have been found in several studies to cause birth defects in animals. As an alternative, 'Natural Remedies for Pregnancy Discomforts,' suggests women treat nausea with soda water, fresh air, with spearmint, raspberry or peppermint tea.

Pregnant women can also prevent nausea by having milk or yogurt at night, getting out of bed slowly, eating high protein meals with fruit or fruit juices and avoiding greasy, fried or highly-seasoned foods.

This book also offers natural remedies and methods for prevention for fatigue, headache, stuffy nose, heartburn, leg cramps, constipation, backache, difficulty sleeping, varicose veins and hemorrhoids, with special sections on warning signals, nutrition and Kegel exercises.

In the section on backache, the book suggests that pregnant women practice good posture, tuck in the buttocks and stand straight and tall.

It describes and illustrates exercises to help strengthen the back to prevent pre-natal backache.

One illustrated exercise, the knee-chest twist consists of lying on the back on a firm surface and pulling the knees to the chest. The pregnant woman should then stretch arms straight out to the sides. Roll knees to one side while turning her head to the opposite side. At completion, switch sides and repeat exercise.

Instead of medication for prevention and treatment of leg cramps (Charlie Horse) the book suggests specific exercise and a diet high in calcium.

As most people know milk and dairy products are a major source of calcium but the book points out that calcium can also be found in non-dairy products such as tofu, broccoli, okra and black strap molasses.

Making soup from bones and one tablespoon of cider vinegar also adds calcium to the diet.

This book was produced by the Coalition for The Medical Rights of Women, a California group concerned about the negative effects on drugs on the growth and development of the fetus.

Consumer Education Research Center is a non-profit national consumer group with members in every state and throughout the world.

PILGRIMAGE TO WHISPERING PINES—Participants in the Bay-Waveland Garden Club-sponsored segment of the 1985 Mississippi Coast Council of Garden Clubs Spring Pilgrimage Thursday, March 28 will visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richmond, 119

PANE-LESS PAINTING—To keep window glass clear of paint splatters, measure and cut newspaper to fit panes. Spray glass with water; plaster on newspaper while it's wet. Paint around frame and by the time you've finished, paper should be dry enough to peel off without leaving bits. You can crumple it and use to shine glass.

TIME SAVERS—Look for new kitchen appliances that do their thing without supervision. Next to a robot, these make cooking and cleanup easier. New microwave ovens can be programmed to cook a meal and have it ready when needed. Coffeemakers can make coffee while you sleep. Or, you can invest in an automatic timer that can be connected to your present appliances to activate them at present times.

A CHOOO—"The Common Cold" is a free booklet that tells you everything you've always wanted to know about the cold you either have or are trying to avoid. To learn what to do and what won't work, send for "563M" to: Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, CO 81009. Booklet is free.

ETV Brief

AUTHOR'S VIEWS

In a special program, "Tom Peters: Achieving Excellence," at 9:40 p.m., Friday, March 15, on Mississippi ETV, Thomas J. Peters, co-author of the world's best-selling business book, "In Search of Excellence," gives his views on what it takes for any successful endeavor.

In contrast to his book, this program focuses on small businesses, schools, hospitals and even households. The program presents the author on stage before a live audience. Peters has spent more than a decade analyzing the factors that contribute to corporate revitalization, innovation, customer satisfaction, productivity improvement and strategy implementation.

In 1979 Peters conceived and conducted the "McKinsey Excellent Company Survey." That survey gave birth to "In Search of Excellence: Lessons from America's Best-Run Companies," which Peters co-authored with Robert H. Waterman.

News Brief

TV TAX TIPS

"Your Tax Return: 55 and Older," a special program airing at 4 p.m., Sunday, March 17, on Mississippi ETV, examines the numerous tax laws, credits and deductions that affect older Americans.

Among the tax laws to be discussed are changes in laws regarding the taxability of social security income for higher income retirees; the requirements for filing since not everyone has to file a return; the extra $1,000 age exemption for citizens 65 and older; changes to the credit for the elderly, now termed the Credit for the Elderly and Permanently and Totally Disabled; the one-time exclusion of the gain on the sale of a residence for people 55 and older; and the deduction of Medicare and premiums.

America's history must include story of tobacco

By Joe Pilet
Scribe, Friendship Oak
Chapter

National Society, DAR

For good or evil, tobacco is an intricate chapter in the history of our country. It is the two-edged saber that brought us wealth, but took our health.

As a token of friendship Indians gave Columbus some dried tobacco leaves. He threw them away. His sailors later learned from the Indians the many uses for the weed. It was used by them in every form. They chewed it, smoked it, reduced it to powder and inhaled it.

Explorers brought tobacco back to Europe where botanists of the 1529-1590's accepted it as a miracle drug. Sahadun wrote: "Placed in the mouth it (tobacco) produces dizziness and stupifies. It is a cure for abscesses, sores, colds, snake bites, chills, convulsions, skin eruptions and internal disorders."

English colonist in Jamestown grew a native tobacco of inferior quality until John Rolfe introduced seeds of prized tobacco from Trinidad and Caracas and the improved tobacco from the "New World" demanded high prices. Tobacco grew readily in the soil of Virginia and was dubbed "the golden weed."

Taxes were paid in tobacco. Brides were bought with tobacco. 120 pounds was the purchase price for a comely maiden.

George Washington was a tobacco planter. During the American Revolution Washington said to his countrymen: "If you can't send money, send tobacco."

The wives of at least two United States presidents smoked pipes. Reportedly the wife of Andrew Jackson used a corn cob pipe as did Mrs. Zachary Taylor.

Dolly Madison used snuff and offered it to her White House guests. Snuff boxes were elegantly designed, often set with jewels. Such boxes are now collector items.

Taverns featured "two-fers," cigars that sold two for a cent.

"Stogies" were popular. Named for the Conestoga covered wagon. Tobacco stores displayed wooden Indians.

Thomas Marshall, vice president during the Woodrow Wilson administration made a famous oft-repeated remark: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

American tobacco users successively used pipes, snuff, chewing tobacco and then most popular of all, cigarettes.

The vagues overlapped. Pipes, truly works of art, were popular and status symbols, ash trays were top selling items. No home was without them. Tobacco in one form or another was the "in" thing to do. With many it still is.

A great deal of acreage is devoted to growing tobacco. The industry is enormous. There is no such thing as "cheap" tobacco.

Our hospitals are full of victims of lung cancer, heart ailment, and emphysema. Each package of cigarettes carries the warning "The Surgeon General Has Determined Smoking is Dangerous to Your Health."

The tobacco habit is hard to overcome. Will education help? Some think so. Could another crop more lucrative be planted? Would making the sale of tobacco illegal help? Every suggestion gets a negative response. Some future American historian perhaps will record the answer.

ASCS Report

PEANUT PRICE SUPPORT

Farmers participating in the 1985 peanut program will be eligible to receive a federal support price of $559 per ton for quota peanuts and $148 per ton for additional peanuts.

Last year's rates were $550 per ton for quota peanuts and $185 per ton for additional peanuts, according to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director.

"Quota peanuts are those grown on a farm within the farm's poundage quota," said Gennin, "and additional peanuts are those grown in excess of the farm's poundage quota, or those grown on a farm without a poundage quota."

USDA estimated that 1984 peanut production costs increased over those of 1983, therefore, a $9-per-ton increase in the national support level was necessary.

Current law requires the national support price for 1985 quota peanuts to be the same as the 1984 quota support level, adjusted for any increase in the average cost of production, excluding any rise in the land costs for 1984.

Gennin said price support rates on additional peanuts are set as the Secretary of Agriculture deems appropriate, taking into consideration the demand for peanut oil and meal, the expected prices of other vegetable oils and protein meals and the demand for peanuts in foreign markets.

"This rate must be set at a level estimate to ensure no government loss on additional peanuts."

He said additional peanuts must be either delivered under an approved contract with a handler or be placed under the additional price support loan program. Additional loan collateral peanuts from the 1985 crop will be sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation for export edible use at no less than $425 per ton.

FALL-SEEDING CROPS

Although time is running out, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is still accepting applications for the 1985 feed grain, wheat, cotton and rice acreage reduction programs.

The sign-up period has been extended to April 1. "When farmers sign up for the programs, they may report the acres and intended use of their wheat, oats, barley, rye and other fall-seeded crops, and avoid having to make a separate visit to the county office to certify," Franklin A. Gennin, an official of the agency, said.

Small grains which are not reported by May 1 will be ineligible for program benefits. ASCS randomly checks farms to verify that acreage reports are accurate. The acreage reports are used to determine compliance with farm programs and provide documentation for future programs.

To be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other benefits, farm program participants are required to report their actual acres planted for harvest. "Farmers who do not sign up for the programs could also benefit by reporting their planted acreage because the report could be used for history purposes."

The ASCS official said farmers who may be undecided about the acreage reduction programs or who have questions about certifying their fall-seeded crops are encouraged to contact the county ASCS office for more information.

POWELL

A person normally cannot feel the blood flow through his veins. Neither can you feel nerve impulses flow over your nerve network. Yet, not even the blood would flow through your veins if not directed to do so by impulses from the nervous system. Color film and taped studies on the spines of monkeys and rabbits indicate some startling changes occur when nerve impulses are interrupted by displaced vertebrae of the spine. In one study, the nerve supply of the heart of monkeys was pinched and the monkey developed heart trouble just like man does. In another study, the nerve supply to the stomach of rabbits was pinched and the rabbits developed gastritis and other disorders of the stomach, the same as man. Amazing changes were achieved when the nerves were freed from pinching and the supply of nerve impulses was restored to the affected organs; rapid recovery took place! Research studies like this illustration the efficacy of Chiropractic technology when applied to human health problems, and points to better health and longer life for those who receive Chiropractic care.

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) Increasing the size of the family is a decision both partners must make, and as long as there is doubt on either side, then it might be wise to err on the side of caution.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) The outlook for romance is good if you don't rush the issue. Just let it develop in its own good time for best and lasting happiness.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) Share, don't flaunt, your good fortune with those who take pleasure in your accomplishments. It isn't everyone who walks so consistently on the sunny side of the street.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) Take the best of the past into your future, but don't cling to it to the point where you are neglecting the good things yet to come.

LEO (7-23/8-22) An occasional professional rejection should not keep you down. Pick yourself up and try again. You don't lack the talent, only the will power needs a little kick forward.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) A talent for tact and diplomacy keeps you in the middle of your friends' problems. You don't need to worry as long as you stay in the center, and don't play favorites.

LIBRA (9-23/10-22) You've burned some emotional bridges behind you and it would be wise to swallow your pride and start constructing new crossings before it is too late.

SCORPIO (10-23/11-21) Gaining great professional success is not always worth it if the cost in personal relationships is too high. Share your dreams and thoughts with those near you.

SAGITTARIUS (11-22/12-21) It is decision time in a personal situation, and it would not be wise to evade it. Make your choice in order, to free the other person from suspense.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) A family member is questioning the religious faith of the clan, and has caused you great anguish. Accept that person's sincerity and do not try to threaten him back into the fold.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-18) It isn't necessary that everyone agree with you, in order to be liked. Variety of opinion is what makes the world go round. How dull if we all were clones!

PISCES (2-19/3-20) Compassion for those less fortunate than we should not lead us into picking up every stray on the street. Exercise a lot of judgment before committing oneself to total strangers.

To encourage the flowering of any of the bromeliads—which may look like the top of a pineapple—put it in a plastic bag with a ripe apple. Ethylene gas from the apple initiates flower buds.

NO PLACE LIKE HOLMES—Jeremy Brett, left foreground, as the world-famous sleuth and David Burke as Dr. Watson stand in an authentic reproduction of Victorian London's Baker Street for the "Mystery" presentation of "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" at 8 p.m., Sundays, beginning March 17, on Mississippi ETV.

RULES — There are three parts to THE WORD CAGE: (1) clues and (2) quiz, which lead to (3) the final answer, the MYSTERY WORD. The clues and quiz are hidden in the grid — up, down, across, backward or diagonally. First circle the clue words (we've found the first word for you). You may find the same letter in more than one word, so circle each letter clearly. Next, circle the quiz words; the first letter and number of letters are given for each. When you have circled all the clue and quiz words, the remaining uncircled letters will spell out the answer to this week's WORD CAGE.

Hollywood Marquee

by James S. Leach

HOLLYWOOD — This past holiday season a group of heavyweights from Britain's music scene cut a record called "Do They Know It's Christmas?" When I say heavyweights, I'm talking the likes of Duran Duran, Phil Collins, Paul McCartney, Sting, U2, Wham, Culture Club and Spandau Ballet.

All the proceeds from the sales of the single and its accompanying video went to African famine victims. At last count the supergroup of superstars, who go by the clever name of Band Aid, have raised millions of dollars for the millions of famine-stricken Ethiopians as the tune has sold over seven million copies worldwide.

Taking a cue from the British venture a group of America's biggest names in music are currently in town: laying down tracks on a record which will also benefit the hopeless hungry of Africa. The song, "We Are The World," penned by Lionel Richie, Stevie Wonder and a newcomer by the name of Michael Jackson, is rumored to feature the three writers plus Bruce Springsteen, Linda Ronstadt, Willie Nelson, Tina Turner, Kenny Rogers and Quincy Jones. In all likelihood, Jones along with mighty Michael will produce the disk.

OK, let's play a little game. I want you to think of two singers who, in your wildest of imaginations, you'd never picture together in a duet. Let me give you a hint. One half of this dynamic duo is a boy who looks like a girl, and the other half is a girl who looks like a well, a WOMAN!

Time's up. If you guessed Boy George and Dolly Parton, you are absolutely right. The two have agreed to cut a single together sometime in the near future. I can just see it now as Dolly and Boy swap makeup secrets and wig designers' names.

Big news from CBS as they announce plans for production of two very special specials. Dustin Hoffman will end his all too long hiatus from the small screen when he stars in the long-awaited presentation of his Broadway hit "Death of a Salesman." Hoffman, who in my opinion is one of the truly great actors in this town, has received rave reviews for his performance in the classic Arthur Miller play.

Also on the network of the big eye, in the near future you'll be seeing Peter Strauss and Sam Neill starring in a six-hour miniseries called "Kane & Abel." Adapted from Jeffrey Archer's novel, the story is about two businessmen who plot to destroy each other.

One last note from the book department. For all of you who have ever lived in or had anything to do with the city of Detroit, run, don't walk to your nearest book store to have them order Detroit Free Press columnist Bob Talbert's "Good Moanin'." Featuring over 100 of his best columns, this very entertaining paperback puts a tear in the eyes and a smile on the lips of any of us transplanted Detroiters who will forever have a piece of their heart in the Motor City.

FINDING PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS IN OVERBUILT AREAS

Question: There seems to be an overabundance of vacant buildings in certain cities, particularly office space. Is it still possible to find a good buy even when there is little demand for space? J.E., Jackson

Answer: Dear J.E.: While many real estate investors suffer tremendous financial setbacks when cities become overbuilt, others manage to profit, and while there are signs of economic disparity in overbuilt cities, some prudent investors will still reap financial benefits by observing and assessing the trend and carefully riding out the cycle.

Yes, it is possible to find a good buy even when demand seems to be far short of supply.

Normally, overbuilding occurs as a result of an overoptimistic view of the demand for space and an overabundance of financing.

Consequently, well-capitalized developers move into an area to construct office buildings and apartment complexes without regard to the actual needs of the community.

In turn, local banks unaware and unconcerned about this fact, gain the confidence to make loans to thinly capitalized investors and small developers.

Unforeseen changes in the economy, a drop in oil prices, unemployment and faltering industries can cause a quick turnaround in population growth and demand.

With too few tenants to adequately occupy commercial or residential property, a real estate market crash occurs.

CREATIVE WRITER

An annual cash award of $100 has been established by Richard and Lisa Howorth of Oxford to The University of Mississippi student showing the greatest promise in creative writing.

The Howorths, owners of an Oxford bookstore, are making the award in honor of his late aunt, Miss Ella Somerville, a longtime Oxford resident who was a patron of the arts and strongly encouraged a number of young writers and artists.

The award winner will be selected each year by a committee in the Department of English. The selection this year will be made by Chairman Evans Harrington, writer-in-residence Ellen Douglas and Dr. Ron Schroeder, faculty adviser for the student literary publication "Images."

The award is open to all students at the university who have an interest in creative writing.

Ole Miss Associates Program to support academic efforts

Friends and alumni of the University of Mississippi can support academic enrichment at the university through the newly created Associates Program, according to Dr. Paul Moore of Pascagoula and Sherman Muths of Gulfport, district chairmen of The Campaign for Ole Miss.

Those joining the Associates Program, announced by Chancellor Gerald Turner on Feb. 6, will contribute $1,000 or more per year in unrestricted support to the Annual Fund to be used solely for academic enrichment.

Under the direction of the chancellor, gifts from the new program will be utilized to increase academic excellence in virtually every area of the University.

Dr. Moore, Muths and other Campaign for Ole Miss volunteers will be seeking members for the Associates Program in a district that includes George, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River and Stone counties.

Membership in the Associates Program is carried in the name of only one individual and is maintained on a calendar-year basis; Jan. 1-Dec. 31. Donors can designate which campus, Oxford or Jackson, they wish their memberships to assist.

Anyone wishing to join the associates or wanting additional information on the program should contact the Annual Fund Office, P.O. Box 8288, University, MS 38677, telephone, 232-7377.

Theater department wins national accreditation

The University of Southern Mississippi Department of Theatre and Dance is one of only five universities in the Southeast and the only one in Mississippi with nationally accredited theatre programs.

Department Chairman Blaine Quarstrom was notified recently that the National Association of Schools of Theatre (NAST) had approved the USM application for accreditation of its bachelor of arts, bachelor of fine arts and master of fine arts degrees.

The commission on accreditation approved the BA degree with emphasis in general theatre and teacher certification; the BFA degree with emphasis in acting and directing, design and technical theatre; and the MFA degree with emphasis in acting, directing, costume design, scenic and lighting design and technical theatre.

The association was established to develop a closer relationship among schools and programs of theatre for the purpose of examining and improving practices and professional standards in theatre education and training. It has 40 members nationwide. These schools are judged to provide "the best possible environment for training in theatre," according to Quarstrom.

"Accreditation by NAST is recognition that our standards of quality are in keeping with the best theatre programs in the nation. Membership in the organization gives us the opportunity to closely compare our program with those in other accredited institutions, thereby encouraging improvement through continuous self-study and planning," said Quarstrom.

Theatrical training was available at USM in 1921 under the English Department. In 1948, the Division of Speech and Dramatics was created and in 1970 the Department of Theatre became part of the School of Fine Arts. The first degrees in theatre were offered at USM in 1954-55. USM offered the first MFA in theatre in the state in 1972.

The primary employment outlets for graduates are in higher and secondary education but according to Quarstrom, the expansion of regional theatre, dinner theatre operations and the increasing trend toward professional staff positions within community and civic theatres are improving employment outlooks for graduates.

Notable USM graduates include Darrell Siegler, formerly master carpenter for the New York Shakespeare Festival; David Sheffield, screenwriter for Universal Pictures and Warner Brothers; Buddy and Rita Sheffield, founders of the Sheffield Ensemble Theatre, producers of national award-winning children's productions; Jimmy Clinton, dancer with the Jose Limon Company; and Sydney Snyder, wardrobe, Disney World/Epcot.

Occupation areas open to USM graduates include professional acting, directing, designing, professional stage manager, theatre management and theatre education. Indirect occupational opportunities are in advertising, arts management, and the film industry.

"The NAST membership guarantees the student who chooses to study theatre at USM excellent training and quality education," he said.

Senior Karen Rice said the experience she got at USM "has been really great because at a lot of other schools, the theatre departments are so large you can graduate without ever having been on stage."

USM to implement computer curriculum

University of Southern Mississippi officials recently announced the impending establishment of a campus-wide, computer-augmented curriculum that will be the first program of its type on a college campus.

The program, which will be launched within the next few weeks, will make, state-of-the-art microcomputers available to students and faculty at reduced prices at the USM Bookstore, with long-term financing arranged through an agreement with IBM Corporation.

Other key aspects of the program will involve establishment of a faculty network to implement the program and mold it to fit the widely varying curriculums of the different academic areas; and the distribution of 200 university-purchased microcomputers at public "clusters" that will serve USM students, faculty and staff members who choose not to buy personal computers.

"A combination of all these elements into one plan is unique in the United States," said Dr. G. David Huffman, dean of the USM College of Science and Technology, who has spearheaded development of the project. "It's the first program of its kind in the country."

Joining Huffman in announcing establishment of the program at a campus news conference were Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas, USM president, and Fred Powell, director of IBM operations in Mississippi.

The biggest advantage of the program is that students will be able to purchase a computer," said Huffman, noting a "secondary financing" arrangement approved by the state's Central Data Processing Authority would allow the university to obtain computer credit from IBM, then sell them directly to students and faculty through the campus bookstore.

IBM will offer discounts ranging from 38 to 43 percent on a variety of microcomputers and peripheral equipment ranging in the cost from $1,000 to $10,000, and purchasers will be able to spread the cost over 48 months by making monthly payments or working the cost into semester tuition fees. The annual financing cost would be well below the current prime interest rate.

Also, in another development, Huffman said IBM agreed to establish a maintenance facility in Hattiesburg to provide speedy repairs and other service for computer purchasers.

He said an "IBM fair" would be held on the USM campus later this month to display the various microcomputer models and show the different options that will be made available at the university bookstore by mid-December.

The 200 computers purchased by the university for placement in public "clusters" early in 1985 will be strategically located across the campus according to the needs of the various academic areas.

"The systems will be placed in a staged fashion over a six-to-12-month period as we gain experience," said Huffman, who holds a Ph.D. degree in engineering science from Ohio State University and is a former professor and chairman of the Department of Computer and Information Science at Purdue University, Indianapolis.

He said USM students, faculty and staff members would have access to the cluster-center computers during specified hours. He said students would use the computers to meet course requirements for some 150 to 200 classes across the campus.

"This will prepare our students for employment in today's market," he added.

In setting up a faculty network to implement the program, Huffman said a director will be appointed to head the project. This director will report directly to USM's vice president for academic affairs, Dr. James Sims, and will be responsible for training representatives of each of the university's schools and colleges. The representatives, in turn, will train other faculty members and they will train students.

"The instructor may hand out discs instead of workbooks," Huffman explained. "For example, some procedures that now are performed manually in an accounting course may be assigned as a task on the computer. Using spread-sheet programs will teach the students to perform the task just like businesses actually do it."
